HEAD COOK — Rose Haro, of 1797 El Dora st., Lemon Grove, has been chosen kitchen manager at the new California Convalescent Hospital in La Mesa. The 90-bed facility is located at 5565 Grossmont Center. Mrs. Haro was formerly head cook at Grossmont Gardens and Monte Vista Lodge. An "Open House" is scheduled for Saturday, according to Glenn Hohistein, hospital administrator.

L.G. School Board Resists Additional Voting Sites

The Lemon Grove School Board rebelled against Big Brother Government Monday night when members protested the setting up of four more voting precincts.

The district's seven polling places have been increased to eleven by the registrar of voters.

The Board viewed the $75-a precinct cost as unnecessary and instructed District Superintendent Netzley to file the protest with the Registrar of Voters.

Cost for each polling place is $15 rent; $18 for each judge and $21 for each inspector. Two inspectors and one judge comprise each precinct.

In 1965, 500 votes were cast for an average of less than 75 votes for each precinct. "There is no need for additional precincts," Netzley told the board. Board member Bert Cosby said that changing the number of polling places has caused him to vote in three different places during the last three elections. "It creates confusion without helping the voter," he said.

Four New Polling Places

The four locations to be added, if the Registrar has his way, are the Wesleyan Methodist church; the Church of Christ; the Congregational church and the Vista La Mesa Christian church.

The election will be April 18 and among the issues will be the election of two trustees. The terms of Lyle Stumbaugh, who has served 4 years, and Robert Sjogren, who has served eight years, will expire. Neither has indicated that he will not run.

In other business the Board is studying the purchase of a new school bus to replace the 18-year old one. The newest bus is eight years old, the Board was told. Buses cost about $20,000.

The Board also authorizeed Netzley to bring 23 part time employes into the district's classification system. They had been employed on an hourly basis as teachers' aides and noon-time assistants. To legally employ these people, the Board was told, they would have been required to have been in the Classified Service since they started in September. The Board approved the change. The cost to the district is about $100 a person a year.

Lemon Grove Escape Artist Guilty of Breaking Jail

SAN DIEGO (CNA) — As Superior Court Judge William P. Mahedy listened in amazement and amusement Thursday as defense attorney introduced into evidence the long, long rap sheet of a Lemon Grove man and then said, "Now, judge, there's the matter of the poetry."

Robert Eugene McCord, 44, 7506 Cuyamaca St., explained from the witness stand that he had written the poetry about a nurse who works in the dispensary at the county jail. He said he was enamored of the woman but said he had never made any advances toward her. He had not been charged with "poetry," however.

Victor Walton, the defense attorney, tried a novel defense. He attempted to show in the non-jury trial that the autthorities had deliberately put McCord into a situation in which he would escape. McCord was being tried for felony escape from the San Diego City Jail.

Walton said the authorities knew McCord had a long history of escape yet made him a trusty on his first day at city jail. McCord admitted leaving that same day.

He had told Deputy Sheriff Richard Buchanan that if he was transferred to city jail, he would be back at county jail the same day trying to get in the back door.

Buchanan testified he replied, "Well, I won't hold my breath, you'll probably get smashed first."

Buchanan was right. McCord did get out and got drunk and was easily arrested.

Mahedy found McCord guilty. He said no one pushed McCord over the wall nor talked him into escaping. The probation hearing will be on Jan. 26.

McCord's poetic infatuation with the nurse, which testimony showed she did not return, was made worse because the woman is the wife of a San Diego policeman. McCord got to know her when he was a trusty assigned to the dispensary.

He said the poems were taken from him and read by the authorities.

McCord said he did not know how many arrests he has had. Apparently it has been over 100 times, nearly always for drunk or disorderly conduct. However, he did 18 months in state prison for forgery once, and another time was put on probation by Mahedy for forgery.

McCord said, "Mahedy put me on probabtion on condition I go to Las Vegas. I got picked up there for drunk five or six times too."

McCord testified he has been in custody for about nine years since leaving the service in 1964.

Probation Dept. Facilities OK'd By Grand Jury

The 1966 San Diego County Grand Jury made several visits during the year to Juvenile Hall and Hillcrest Receiving Home and found these facilities being capably administered and rendering excellent and valuable service, it was reported by C.T.G. Rogers, Chief County Probation Officer.

A Grand Jury Committee made two unannounced visits to Rancho del Campo, a rehabilitation institution for boys 15 to 18 years, and said "this institution is clean and the established administrttive procedures appear to be followed."

The institutions are operated by the San Diego County Probation Department. The Juvenile Committee of the Grand Jury conducted an investigation into the Juvenile Division of the County Probation Department and reported "presently there are no apparent problems of administration or personnel."

The Education Committee of the Grand Jury recommended that 12 weeks of summer school be provided at the Hillcrest, Sierra Vista, and Juvenile Hall schools operated by the County Education Department in Probation Department institutions. The Grand Jury pointed out that a County Counsel opinion indicated that it is required that year-round school be operated in Juvenile Hall.

Kiwanis Gives Hearing Aid To Tijuana Youngsters

The Lemon Grove Kiwanis club contributed $139 to Tijuana deaf school children last week and learned the contribution equalled nearly one half the school's monthly budget.

Janet Thompson, a San Diegan, who has taken up residence in Tijuana because she wanted to teach young deaf to comprehend, was recipient of the money for the school. She was given the money at the regular Kiwanis weekly meeting at Bowlero.

Miss Thompson, who is only 25 years of age, started the school 2½ years ago after she had completed one year of kindergarten teaching in the San Diego City school system.

She started the school from scratch and became the school's director. The school, named Tijuana Parents' School for Deaf Children, filled to its 30 student capacity immediately.

Whether the position has been financially rewarding is not open to doubt. She draws $125 a month—but not every month— as funds are available.

She lives at the school in Tijuana—she prefers it that way and because "I am able to teach more efficiently."

She seldom gets back to San Diego nowadays—except to accept contributions as she did at the Kiwanis meeting. She has turned down offers to teach deaf children at several schools in the United States.

Interest in the school here in San Diego started late last year when San Diego State's Delta Zeta soroity started a "Buy a Brick" project for the school. The slogan lost some of its meaning when Fred Bejarano, of Tijuana, himself a former president of the Tijuana Kiwanis club, offered to supply all the bricks the school needs.

Funds now contributed are being used for myriad other needs. "Things like electrical wiring, and appliances, and even doors," Miss Thompson said.

Contributions do not go into the budget, she said. The city government provides $160 a month of the $300 budget "when they get around to paying anything." Parents of the 30 enrolled deaf youngsters underwrite the balance. "Actually, about 10 families carry the entire load," Miss Thompson said.

"Tijuana has approximately a 10 per cent retardation factor among children," she said. "We think we have about one fourth the total number of trainable deaf children enrolled."

The project was encouraged in Lemon Grove by John Acosta, a deaf architect, who has an office on North Ave. His sister is also deaf. When Acosta suggested the program to L.G. Kiwanis President Ed Purtzer, it was met with enthusiastic support.

Thus it was that the deaf youngsters of Tijuana are $139 better off than they were the week before. "It's a worthwhile project and we're going to contribute more," Purtzer said.

Schulte To Head Goodrich Store

Ken Schulte, an eleven year veteran with B. F. Goodrich, has been named manager of the firm's San Diego store at 7285 Broadway, Lemon Grove.

He succeeds Don Rhodes. Rhodes was promoted to a factory territory manager in Los Angeles. The change took effect late last week.

Schulte, originally from the Detroit and Toledo area, has been the East Los Angeles Goodrich store manager since 1963. He was territory manager for Goodrich from 1961 until he was transferred to Los Angeles.

Schulte said that the Goodrich firm sees the store in Lemon Grove as being the center of a prime market and "I have been instructed to develop the store to its full capacity.

"Goodrich has always been noted for quality tires and merchandise and the top-quality policy will be continued at the Lemon Grove store," he said.

Schulte is married and has two sons. His family is in the process of being moved to the area from Los Angeles, he said.

PGA Open Starts Today With $66,000 Purse

The nation's greatest golfers today began four days of competition for a record $66,000 purse in the 15th Annual San iDego PGA Open over the 6,275-yard Stardust Country Club course in Mission Valley.

The Open also has the distinction this year of opening the year-long, nationwide Professional Golfers Assn. tour, a fact that has helped to lure the best field in the Open's history.

Heading the field is hometown Bill Casper, Jr., 1966 PGA Golfer of the Year, and defending champion of the San Diego Open.

But hot on his heels are the likes of Gay Brewer, Gene Littler, Frank Beard, Al Geiberger, Doug Sanders, Bobby Nichols, R. H. Sikes, Bert Yancey, Ray Flody, George Archer and Miller Barber.

Four former San Diego Open champions are in the field. They are: Littler, who surprised the Pros as an amateur in 1954 at Rancho Santa Fe; Bob Rosburg, who won at Singing Hills in 1956; Tommy Jacobs, a Pacific Beach resident and who won in 1962 in a playoff with Johnny Pott; and Wes Ellis, who beat out Casper in a sudden-death playoff two years ago, after they had tied with record-setting 267s for 72 holes.

First prize is a record $13,200, and even the second place money of $7,920 is considerably more than the 5,800 Casper received for winning last year.

Casper is the favorite, and not just on sentiment, either. He proved himself as America's premier golfer last year, taking the PGA money title with $121,944, winning four tournaments (the most of any player), capturing his fourth Vardon Trophy with a 70.28 stroke average, leading all others in Ryder Cup point standings, and winning the U. S. Open.

Saturday Activities Planned for Children

The Ira C. Copley Memorial YMCA in East San Diego, began the winter session of their Saturday Club Program for boys and girls on Saturday January 7th. It will continue every Saturday for 12 weeks.

The program for boys and girls ages 5 to 9 years of age is called the Saturday Fan Club. It consists of three hours of activities each Saturday afternoon.

The Y-Rangers and Rangerettes is a program for boys and girls ages 9 to 12 who meet three hours each Saturday morning. The youngsters form their own clubs of approximately 12 members, and a trained YMCA leader guides each club through a program of fun and learning.

Activities include swimming instruction, arts, crafts, movies, group participation programs, hikes and excursions. The physical fitness program includes baseball, basketball, football and track, according to the ages and interests of the children.

Baker and Powell vs. U.S.

The eyes of all citizens were cocked toward Washington this week to see how clean Congressional dirty linen becomes.

By the manner and to the degree that cleanliness came would be the guide as to what extent we may expect in the way of morality during the coming session.

There is the Adam Clayton Powell matter. He does not deny that his clique is using our money for junkets and other expenses not intended to be carried at taxpayers' expense. Congress looked at his capers this week. They were not expected to look hard because Congressman Powell, a Negro, claims that he will cite time and place where practically every Congressman has been guilty of the same peccadillos in varying degrees.

This, of course, frightened most of our Congressmen. The more airtight they made the charges against Powell the more certainly they have euchred themselves into the end of their political trail.

Then, there is the black-lash. Powell's henchmen have already implied that it is not questionable expenses Powell's white peers are aiming at. The object is to make Congress look cleaner by making it all white.

Both arguments are potent — and probably nearer right than wrong and the wrist-slapping suffered by the loss of the chairmanship of the Education and Labor Committee deprives Powell of nothing financially. But when they voted to hold Powell out of Congress, we could hear the cracking sound of stiffening backbones.

Then, there was Bobby Baker. Hearings are scheduled to begin this week also on the vaunted "strong, right arm" of yew-know-whoo.

In the Baker matter there is evidence that factual testimony would rip away the cloak of righteousness that now covers scads of our national lawmakers. It might even uncover the present position of that pretty fraulein who was shuttled to Washington from Germany, vice versa, or both.

As in the Powell case there is a collateral concern. This one might be called an LBJlash. LBJ rushed to Bobby's aid when his shenanigans were first revealed. The President accepted a certain amount of moral responsibility for Baker's actions when he all but made Bobby the son he never had.

The Powell affair had a surprising and quick resolution. We had forgotten that Congress could act so fast—except when angered. The chips are apparently also down in the Baker case and the Federal Court, we hope, will come to an equally fast and righteous solution.

From the Powell matter it seems, there emerged one stronger figure—That of Congressman Lionel Van Deerlin.

Van Deerlin has become a champion of honesty in the Powell affair but it is being said that he has lost popularity in Congress because of it.

He gained popularity in his San Diego district because Americans want their Congress to be honest and they want wrongdoers penalized.

His stand, however, is hardly a sacrifice. Congressmen, it is said, vote only for themselves — and in Harlem, where Van Derlin's stand would be extremely unpopular, the voters can neither elect nor unseat him.

Chamber Eyes Offers For S V Property Sale

The Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce, responding to a questionnaire, considered Monday the sale of the Chamber property. Respondents voted 50 to 15 to allow the membership of the chamber to rent, lease or sell the property.

Two groups submitted bids, Mrs. Rosarie Graham, Chamber president, announced to the board of directors, Monday. One, Branch 139, Fleet Reserve Association, would not put up money in any substantial amount in their offer to obligate itself for $52,440. About $500 to cover escrow costs and transfer of title would be their out-ofpocket cash.

The Association would recover $135 a month in rent from the chamber and from the Historical Society.

The offer, made on Dec. 6, was for the entire property, including the Chamber hall and the old adobe building. It said it would issue a first trust deed of $11,100 and make payments of $82 per month, including principal and interest. It would allow the S.V. Chamber of Commerce free rent, two nights a week for two years. It would lease the old adobe building to the Historictl Society and a piece of ground 60 by 100 for 30 years, with the Society maintaining the building. The caretakers house to eventually be removed.

$200 A Year

The Fleet Reserve would donate to the Historical Society $200 a year for 20 years to help maintain the property of the adobe. The offer is contingent on the Fleet Reserve obtaining a club liquor license.

The other offer was from the Spring Valley Historical Society. It wants a portion of the property, which will exclude the Chamber hall. That offer is for $1, plus other costs and whatever lien there is by the bank.

The meeting adjourned and the two offers will be further discussed at a special meeting Monday night, Jan. 16 at 7:30 p.m.

A motion was made by board member Robert Graham, that the board recommend to the general membership that the name of the organization by changed from "Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce" to "Spring Valley Community Council." This would constitute a by-laws change, and the recommendation would have to be read at the next three meetings and voted on in March. This decision is an outcrop of a meeting last year, at which three officers of the Ja Jolla Town Council spoke of setting up and maintaining a town council.

Questionnaire Results

Results of the survey were:

Should S.V. Chamber of Commerce change its name-Yes 57, No 26.

Read Matthew 13:31-35

While the people pressed upon him to hear the word of God, he was standing by the lake of Gennesaret. (Luke 5:1, RSV)

The church speaks best through contemporary language. Just as the New Testament was first written in the language of the marketplace and the highway, so the good news, concerning Jesus Christ is best delivered today in the vernacular of the common man. The sale of millions of copies of new translations of the Bible witneses to us that the people want the Christian message in the language of today.

The people pressed upon Jesus to hear the word of God because He spoke to their need in terms they could understand. In the Gospel of Mark we read that "the great throng heard him gladly." Jesus' simple words and homespun illustrations have lived across nineteen centuries and still speak with power to modern people.

The church communicates best through language which people best understand.

Prayer: Our Father, we thank Thee for the many men and women who have toiled and sacrified to give us the Bible in our own native tongue. Help us to study it with the same earnest enthusiasm. May the truth we discover there guide us through this day. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Thought for the day: People listen when the church makes the gospel of Jesus Christ relevant.

This Sunday

The Lord loveth the church and gave Himself for it accoridng to Acts 20:28 and Ephesians 5:25. If we really love Him we will also love His church. At least enough to support it with our prayers, possessions and presence. Where would America be today if it had not been for the influence and blessings of Christ and His church?

nant do not take up their education after their babies are born.

The responsibility that comes with parenthood, and the shame of a delayed marriage, or in many cases, no marriage at all, are the pressures that contribute to the pregnant drop-out problem.

It is difficult to be anything but sympathetic toward these unfortunate girls — but let's be realistic. Rounding up these mothers and convincing them to return to the educational system is taking a look only at the result, rather than the cause.

We have produced a society that has the most casual attitude on morals than any society in recent hi tory. Only a generation ago we frowned on the showing, sharing or discussing openly many subjects that seem to be absolutely without moral guidelines today.

Who widened these guidelines? Not the youngsters. They'll accept any liberties not specifically forbidden but they will stay within limits set by their elders if the limits are presented on a "no foolishness" basis

Moral concepts of youngsters reflect the moral attitudes of parents and the problem become educational only to the extent of educating entire families on the importance of morality.

Even so, parental supervision would be at a bare minimum. The high cost of living has made it mandatory for both parents to work. Inflation, sponsored by the various levels of government makes it impossible for most families to exist on a single income.

Governmental indiscretions which result in inflation seem to be a far cry from the subject of teen-age pregnancies but the logical mind can thread a path from one directly to the other.

Let it be noted that our educational system is not being accused of having fathered the teen-age pregnancy problem, and that, we suppose, is one of the things the system has not been accused of lately.

Federal Loans Readied For Low Income Businesses

The Smal Business Administration's Eeonomic Opportunity Loan program is now availtble throughout San Diego and Imperial Counties, it was announced by John W. Quimby, SBA Regional Director.

The loans will be made to existing and new businesses by SBA's Regional Office at 110 West "C" Street, Suite 705, San Diego, and by 72 other SBA field offices throughout the nation. Previously the program was available on a limited basis in 44 communities.

To find those low-income and other handicapped people with the best potential to successfully operate a business, SBA will work closely with community action agencies, neighborhood centers, regional organizations and other groups throughout the San Diego and Imperial County area, Quimby said. These organizations also will be asked to assist in providing volunteers from the business community to work with SBA personnel in providing management assistance to loan recipients.

In Ghetto Areas

In announcing the expanded loan program in Washington, SBA Administrator Bernard L. Boutin said:

"We do not intend to make bad loans under this program, but neither do we intend to set up inflexible road-blocks. Our people will go out into the ghetto areas in the cities, to the poor sections on the peripheries of the suburbs and to the rural areas.

We will look for the loans which can expand viable businesses, exploit new ideas, establish small manufacturing plants—the kinds of businesses which can have a healthy effect on the community, which can expand employment opportunities, which ctn stimulate the economy and be in concert with our national goals.

"And, we intend to work closely in the EOL program with local groups, such as community action agencies and neighborhood centers, as well as with areas and regional organizations devoted to stimulating the development of the disadvantaged and lower-income groups.

Development Centers

Wherever authorized by the Office of Economic Opportunity, SBA will cooperate with Small Business Development Centers in providing counseling, guidance and management trtining. SBDCs shall refer applicants for financial assistance, coming to their attention. to SBA.

"In addition, S3A will make available to EOL recipients all of our management tssistanc tools in a combined effort tc assuic the succe s of thes small busines es."

A key feature of the expanded EOL program is that it will also seek to assist for the first time those who are above the poverty level, and yet cannot qualify for SBA's regular business loan program. "For too long," said Boutin, "this group of people has been in a sort of financial no-man's land. We intend to help them."

This information is offered as a guide for filing your personal Federal Income Tix.

Savings For Senior Citizens

If you or your spouse are over 65, tax rules provide a number of breaks which can cut your total tax bill. These are especially easy to miss since they were of little interest before reaching age 65. Therefore many taxpayers have grown accustomed to glossing over such dollar saving provisions as:

- ★ An extra $600 personal exemption for each spouse 65 or older;
- ★ This year's medical deduction is not reduced by 3% of adjusted gross income;
- ★ Possible qualification for for "Retirement Income Credit" which can reduce the tax bill of a married couple by over $450;
- ★ Social Security benefits, which usually start at 65, are not taxable income.

Make sure you don't miss these benefits in preparing your 1966 returns, and take a look at returns for prior years to see that you haven't overpaid. If you have, a refund can be obtained by filing a claim within three years of the original filing date.

Some Save By Paying Self-Employment Taxes

People in busines for themselves, such as farmers and persons practicing professions, are subject to a self-employment tax. This is a substitute for the Social Security taxes which would be paid if they were employees. It is computed on the U.S. individual income tax return form and is added to the income tax. Don't overlook paying this tax if you are in this category since the retirement benefits can be expected to exceed the amount of tax you pay, particularly for people who are close to retirement age.

Not All Interest Is Taxable

If you have received interest from bonds obligations of any state or political subdivision such as a county, city, school or water district, it is not taxable on your U.S. income tax return. Interest received on obligations of the federal government and of the State of California and its subdivisions (issued after November 4, 1902) is not taxable on your California income tax return. California does tax interest received on obligations of other states and their politica subdivisions.

Learn Spanish the Easy Way

Hardison's Telespanish

by James Hardison

A Spanish word that is used frequently and is easy to remember is "Yo." The expression "Yo como." (I eat.), "Yo veo." (I see.), and "You duermo." (I sleep.)) are good examples of how "Yo" is used.

If you will notice, all the above verbs with "Yo" end with "o." In Spanish, verbs that end in "o" most frequently do not require the suject "Yo" to be shown. The subject "Yo" is understood and will be included in the English translation.

The expression "Como carne." (I eat meat.) "Veo el libro." (I see the book.), and "Duermo tarde." (I sleep late.) do not have the subject "Yo" with the Spanish expressions. However, the verbs end in "o," and the understood subject "yo" is translated to English as "I."

In conclusion, "Yo como." and "Como." have the same basic meaning even though "Yo" is not used in the last expression.

Compare the phrases in today's lesson and practice saying them with the subject "YO" and later on say them without "Yo." Once you have read the expressions over, you may practice saying them with the automatic two minute record on your telephone when you dial 276-2762.

Important Expressions:

Say "Yo como carne." (yoh KOH-moh KAHR-neh)
for "I eat meat."
Say "Tomo cafe." (TOH-moh kah-FEH) for "(I) drink coffee."

Household Expressions:

Say "Yo trabajo mucho." (yoh trah-BAH-hoh MOO-cho)
for "I work hard."
Say "Lavo la ropa." (LAH-voh lah ROH-pah)
for "(I) wash the the clothes."

Travel Expressions:

Say "Salgo manana," (SAHL-goh mahn-YAH-nah)
for "(I) leave tomorrow."
Say "Yo mane jo el coche." (yoh mah-NEH-hoh ehl KOH-cheh) for "I drive the car."

Red Writer Rejected As Grossmont Speaker

Grossmont College trustees Monday night voted 3-2 to reject a visit to the campus by M. I. Laski, a Communist newspaper editor.

A faculty-student committee had proposed that Laski be allowed to speak Friday night.

The board, late last year, had rejected a speaking opportunity on campus to George Lincoln Rockwell, the American-Nazi leader.

Trustees, Robert Dryden, Palmer Svalstad and Rex Hall cast the negative votes.

In other business Monday night the trustees, sitting as a high school board approved a 2 million bond issue for improvement and expansion of high schools in the Grossmont District. The issue will be voted on by district residents April 18. The election will be coupled locally with an elementary district trustees' election.

The board turned down a request by the high school district faculty senate by which voters would be asked to increase the 1967-68 school year operating budget.

The same board sits as high school and college trustees. Monday they sat first as a high school board. At 11 p.m. they sat as a college board.

To The Outiside World

by Kathy Powell

This week at Mount Miguel high school might be termed "the substitutes hayday." An epidemic of runy noses, upset stomachs, and sore throats is sweeping the campus and taking with it a third of the faculty. Get well soon; we students need you teachers back! The confusion is unbearable!

Speaking of disease, "termpaperitis" has reached its climax here at M.M. And the strain shows: in the fatigued looks on the students' faces, the shaky hands, and the lengthy absence list. Now comes the long wait for the rade!!!

* * *

The second week after Christmas holidays might also be called Mount Miguel at the Movies. Most of the Senior English classes are supplementing their knowledge of England's history with a four-reel showing of Becket. Juniors have traversed the Puritan period with The Crucible. And Freshmen are exploring Shakespeare's art with Romeo and Juliet. Unfortunitely, it's intermission time for the Sophomores.

Speaking of the arts, Mount Miguel has plans to produce The Crucible as their second play of the season. Keith Richards, M.M. drama coach, will begin try-outs for the ten male and female leads Monday and Tuesday (the 16th and 17th) of next week. Rumors say that the turn-out will be big. Let's hope so. Richards stated, "To find twenty good kids, you have to see almost a hundred."

M.M.'s speech team attends its sixth tournament this year when it tackles the San Diego Open at State College the 13th and 14th of this month. Mr. W. R. Sanders, speech coach, says, "This is one of the most experienced teams I've ever had." Good luck Mr. S.

A new generation of power for San Diego

SDG&E is cooperating with other utilities and agencies on a number of big and exciting power projects. They include: the largest extra-high-voltage transmission system ever undertaken in America; a vast transmission network that will interconnect systems of 20 other utilities in 9 Western states; a new coal-powered generating plant in Utah to provide low-cost power for Southern California; the world's largest power and sea water conversion plant on a man-made island off Southern California (which will generate more electricity than Hoover Dam and produce enough fresh water for a city of ¾ million).

In addition, of course, this is the year the San Onofre Nuclear Power Plant will go into operation (approximately twice the size of any nuclear power plant now operating in the nation).

These and other upcoming power programs at SDG&E will assure continued, efficient and low-cost energy in our service area for generations to come.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

As we begin a bright new year I feel very glad to be a member of this community. The good people of Lemon Grove and Spring Valley have said "We care" and gave of their prayers, personal concern, and pocketbooks to help one of our youngsters, Steven Veliquette.

You probably know better than I how many worked so hard and have been so generous these last few weeks. It gives renewed faith in that old American community spirit of helping one another, and solving one's own problems, in spite of all one hears about needing the state or federal government for help!

Thank you for being one of the prime movers and for letting our community know about Steve through your newspapers. Reverend Jimmy Johnson and many others put in a lot of hard work to make Steven Veliquette Day a success. Thanks go to the Help the Handicapped Club for their financial contributions to Steve's medicines in the last year and a half, Lemon Grove Kiwanis Club, the American Red Cross, which has provided one of Steve's medications free of charge, and his pharmacist, who has provided all of his prescription medicines at cost.

After being seriously ill over the holidays, Steve has bounced back once more, and is back in school again.

Let us pray that God will soon grant us a cure for Steve's disease and that thousands of other youngsters — and their parents — will be spared from this dread illness.

Best wishes for the New Year,

Steve's Doctor

Dear Editor:

Thank you for putting my picture in the paper. It's the first time I ever won a coloring contest.

Will you give another contest? Thanking you for the prize.

Love

AGUA CALIENTE — The holidays may be over, but something resembling a Christmas shopping rush is taking place at Caliente each morning as hundreds of thoroughbreds go through their training paces in preparation for the resumption of racing Saturday.

With the stable population rapidly approaching the 800-mark, clockers are working a maximum schedule. Timing drills are being conducted on both the training and main tracks.

Most of the horses on the backstretch had continued light conditioning during the long layoff prompted by the strike which shut Caliente down last September, but their preps now are being intensified to ready them for the 1967 campaign. Globetrotters To Aid

The Harlem Globetrotters, razzle-dazzle magicians of the basketball court, will bring their world-famous cage circus to San Diego Friday night, Jan. 27.

They will meet the determined New York Nationals in a single game in the San Diego International Sports Arena at 8 p.m.

The game is sponsored by the San Diego Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society, as a benefit for its journalism scholarship fund.

The 1967 edition of the Trotters — their 41st season — will be another rib-tickling performance by superior players and showmen. As usual, they will be led by the peerless Meadowlark Lemon, Clown Prince of Basketball.

Overpowering as the Trotters appear — they won 246 and lost none in regular season play last year — they don't faze the spirited Nationals, who will put up a well-coached team of top players with height, speed ability to score and a strong desire to win.

In addition to the cage contest, the Trotters will bring along a sparkling assemblage of added variety acts. These will go on before the game and at halftime.

The acts include an exhibition of table tennis wizardry by Richard Bergmann, five times world's champion; a sensational perch act by the Del Moral Trio; a demonstration of body control and team gymnastics by the Elkins Sisters; a foot-juggling spectacular by beautiful, blonde Miss Loni, and the incredible feats of Lee Marx, clown, acrobat and juggler.

Tickets are $4, $3 and $2 and are available at Sports Arena box offices throughout the county.
